

Aurora Health Clinic — Patient Data Privacy Guidelines

Data Retention Policy

Patient medical records are retained for a minimum of seven years following the date of the last clinical visit, in accordance with state healthcare regulations. Pediatric records are retained until the patient reaches 25 years of age.

Consent for Data Sharing

Patient information may not be shared with third-party organizations, including insurance providers or research institutions, without explicit written consent from the patient or their legal guardian. Consent forms must be renewed annually for ongoing data-sharing arrangements.

Access Controls

Electronic health records are protected by role-based access controls. Only clinical staff directly involved in a patient's care may view that patient's complete medical history. All access events are logged and reviewed quarterly by the compliance officer.
